Why it's happening

The City of Asheville faces familiar and emerging challenges due to a growing population, employment, and tourism base. Accommodating growth through outward expansion is not practical, especially given the unique lay of the land and the expense (and limited resources) of constructing new roads. The Asheville In Motion Plan is an important community-driven step to absorb and enhance growth in a way that balances travel needs and creates true choices among the City's mobility options.

The City's expressed goal is to create an effective and progressive plan that encourages health-oriented and sustainable transportation, reduces barriers to access transportation, and connects residents and visitors with the places they want and need to go with improved safety, efficiency, and accessibility.

The planning process for the Asheville In Motion Plan will be guided by a Project Oversight Committee made up of community members and professionals. The planning process will be organized into three phases—Visioning; Scenario Planning and Mobility Framework; and Inviting Success. Each phase will include opportunities for community engagement through public meetings and the availability of materials and documents on technical aspects of the plan and draft recommendations.
